Renewing the Mind for Teaching and Learning

Taught by Dr. Brenda MacMenamin

February 3- April 7 (10 weeks) live online (using Zoom), 12 noon-1:30 pm EST

Renewing the Mind for Teaching and Learning is a study in the Principle Approach, a new way of thinking that views all life and learning through a Biblical lens.

A Biblical philosophy of education begets a fresh approach to both curriculum and method. Start the New Year by “renewing your mind for teaching and learning” with a group of like-minded patriots. This study is the first step in the process of restoring true Biblical education, the source of liberty and Christian self-government.

- Teach using a time-tested method of successful education
- Master the joy and spirit of subject material—vocabulary, principles and leading ideas
- Establish the purpose of learning—overviews, timelines, maps, goals
- Construct a solid Biblical and academic curriculum
- Create an appealing learning environment providing the right tools
- Consistently uphold the standards of Christian scholarship and character
- Celebrate learning by incorporating music, art, drama, pageantry, performance and all the arts

Dr Brenda MacMenamin has loved learning our Christian Heritage and Character of our Founders through Teaching and Learning the Principle Approach with FACE, Foundation for American Christian Education, since 1984. She has taught her own children, parents and students through co-ops and churches locally and to online study groups. In the summer of 2021, she was delighted to earn her FACE Principle Approach Master Teacher Certification. Now, she looks forward to introducing the Principle Approach through this Renewing the Mind study group.
